Understanding the Budget and Appropriations Process

Thursday, February 29, 2024 • 2:00 - 3:30 PM EST

Rayburn House Office Building 2168 (Gold Room) • Please RSVP @ eesi.org/022924budget#rsvp

Live webcast will be streamed at eesi.org/livecast

The Environmental and Energy Study Institute (EESI) invites you to a briefing about the latest presidential budget proposal and the outlook for Congressional appropriations for fiscal year 2025. The briefing will describe the different stages of the appropriations process and how it interfaces with other legislative activity on the Hill. The briefing will also shed light on the role of the 12 appropriations subcommittees and highlight ways Congressional staff, working both on and off the appropriations committees, can engage with the process. Panelists will showcase examples of investments in climate, energy, and environment research and innovation that bring the process to life.

Speakers for this session include:

- ▶ Angela Jones, Analyst in Environmental Policy, Congressional Research Service
- ▶ Natasha Vidangos, Associate Vice President of Innovation and Technology Policy, Environmental Defense Fund
- ▶ Franz Wuerfmannsdobler, Advisory Board Member, Environmental and Energy Study Institute, Formerly Congressional staffer for U.S. Senators Chris Coons (D-Del.), Byron Dorgan (D-N.D.), and Robert Byrd (D-W.Va.); Professional Staff, Senate Appropriations Committee

This event is free and open to the public.
